About the Music - - -

"Diamond Jubilee" is an exciting overture that features the woodwind section, the brass section, and the percussion section. The piece should reflect the precision cut and shiny quality of a diamond.

The 8-bar introduction builds to an overture-like theme in the brass. The woodwinds get their chance to shine, playing the main theme starting in measure 17. A flowing, contrasting theme begins in measure 25 with the woodwinds and allows the euphonium section to shine. Measures 37-41 build to the return of the main theme scored for full band. The percussion section has its own feature beginning in measure 57 with the wind instruments gradually added back in measures 61-65. The piece then returns to the main theme scored for full band and ends with a big four-measure coda. A perfect addition to any concert, "Diamond Jubilee" would serve the role of opening overture or finale quite well.

About the Composer - - -

Jeremy Doss was born in Bentonville, Arkansas, June 25, 1976.

He is an award-winning composer and a published songwriter, having scored numerous short and independent feature films.

Graduating with his bachelor's degree in music education from the University of Arkansas, his master's degree in music composition from the University of Arkansas, he further achieved an advanced certificate in film scoring from UCLA.

His music has appeared in films that have played in festivals all over the world: Canne Film Festival, HBO Comedy Arts Festival, LA Film Festival, Dallas Film Festival, festivals in Egypt, India, France, United States, etc. In 2004, Jeremy won 'Best Short Composition' at the 35th Annual Utah Composers Guild Composition Contest for his orchestral work titled "The American West." Jeremy is also an active composer for school band programs and has been commissioned by bands in Arkansas, Texas, and Louisiana.

A former band director (Shiloh Christian School, Springdale, AR and Washington Jr. High School, Bentonville, AR), Jeremy stays active by teaching private trumpet lessons and master classes. After 7 years in southern California, on July 1, 2011, he and his family relocated back to northwest Arkansas where he continues his composition career in the beautiful surroundings of the Ozarks.
